Want to make a positive impact? As a Consultant with us, you’ll develop the expertise to make industry safer, more sustainable and more productive.

Who are we?
As a world class operations management consulting firm, we’re in the business of saving lives, increasing sustainability and improving operational performance. We’re on the ground helping our clients protect their employees and assets, realise operational efficiencies and innovate more rapidly by focusing on cultural transformation, digital insights and workforce capability. Through our experience, insights and innovative solutions, we help our clients prepare for the challenges of tomorrow, today.

What will you do?
You’ll grow as we grow. You’ll develop expert consulting skills. Working across multiple industries throughout Europe, you’ll help our clients improve their operations. You’ll work on a number of topics such as operational excellence, safety, risk management, digital optimization, and environmental performance. You’ll help our clients create, communicate and implement solutions from start to finish. You’ll innovate and expand your analytical and problem-solving skills. You’ll develop insights and be involved in all aspects of the projects from day one: helping structure and prepare projects, lead key initiatives and influence senior management decisions.

Who are you?
You’re an ambitious graduate with a degree in Engineering, Business or Psychology. You value your freedom and work best in an autonomous environment. You’ve had some exposure to a consulting or industrial operations environment (possibly internships or early work experience). You share our passion for safety and sustainability. You love to travel, are native or fluent in German and business proficient in English, our business language. You have excellent communication skills and an entrepreneurial mindset, willing to develop expertise across all aspects of our clients’ operations.
